From the Desk of the Director/Tribal Liaison...

Brrrrr....it is cold here on the Palouse – nine degrees this morning with a wind chill factor of 17 degrees below!! Brrrrr... I realize that cold is relative, but for the Palouse winters, today is feeling colder than usual.

We have several exciting announcements, however, to warm us up. Faith Price has been promoted to Plateau Center Assistant Director for Native American Undergraduate Student Services and Communications! Dr. Ken Lokensgard has come on board as Native American Graduate Student and Research Coordinator for the Plateau Center! We have a new Communications Intern that we are welcoming to the team, Dylan Parker! We are revitalizing NAF-SAPA (Native American Faculty, Staff, and Administrative Professional Association)! Last but not least (in fact the whole reason we are here), we celebrate the success of our December graduates and our ongoing recruitment, programming, scholarship, and support of our potential and current students! These are exciting developments in our program and we continue to grow in meeting the needs of our students and celebrating Native community at WSU!
