Incredible Wearables! It's Science! It's Technology! It's Fun!

National Youth Science Day is October 5th at WSU Extension Cougar Auditorium. Please join us at 6:00 PM for two hours of exciting science, engineering, technology and a little math! This year the 2017 4-H National Youth Science Day challenge is called "Incredible Wearables". It is a hands-on project that challenges young people to use the engineering design process to build a wearable fitness tracker. Through the challenge, young people will learn how circuits, sensors, and health data can be blended with fashion to create a viable, wearable tech product.
