The Danish Veterinary and Agricultural Library welcome you to the 2nd International Conference of Animal Health Information Specialists.

The conference is held at the Royal Veterinary and Agricultural University, situated in Frederiksberg, one of the oldest quarters of Copenhagen. The university has been located here since 1858 with the beautiful botanical garden, which is one of the breathing holes of the city.

During the last years the Royal Veterinary and Agricultural University has encountered a significant extension also including a new library which will house a welcome reception and the continuing education courses. The conference venue will be in the new theatre building of the university with all modern lecture facilities available.

We are looking forward to welcome information specialists from all over the world and to exchange experiences and be inspired to face the challenges we meet in the information society. There has been a vivid interest for the conference also from the information providers whom we expect to see as exhibitors and participants in the conference.

Welcome to Copenhagen - the city with beautiful towers, the Little Mermaid, Tivoli and many other fascinating sightseeings.
